Cottonwood Island Upland Disposal Site - River Mile 70.1

Size: 62 acres
Elevation: 10 to 30 feet above Mean Sea Level
Owner: Port of Kalama
Description: This site has been used continually as a dredged material placement site. The island is mostly level and is 20 feet above the Columbia River. There are steep banks dropping to both the Columbia River and Carrolls Channel along some reaches of this island. The property has some beacons and timber pile dikes adjacent to the site. There are no other developments on the site. This site may be utilized by dispersed recreational users. There is no direct access to the island. There is no water service on the island.

0 0.05 0.1 0.2 0.3 0.4 Miles